

Ph.D. Programme Outcomes

Ph.D.

1. Students after completing the six month course will have an elementary knowledge about the different disciplines of the subject.
2. Students will be able to utilize their knowledge of using instruments and other analytical techniques for solving their research problems.
3. Students will be aware of the consequences of deviating from the standard code of conduct in research laboratories, plagiarism, and paraphrasing, ethical aspects and so on.
4. Students will be able to access and extract the desired information from the different scientific databases and resources.
5. Students will be able to read and write good scientific papers.
6. The programme will motivate the students to take up the challenges of the Ph.D course and make them mentally prepare to excel in the respective field of their research work.
7. After completion of the course, students will gain the capacity to serve the various higher academic institutions like Colleges, Universities, National Research Institutes in various fields of apex academic research.
8. The Ph.D. awarded scholar can be engaged in the comparative philosophical studies from the standpoint of theistic and atheistic philosophical systems.
9. The immediate fruit for being a Vidyavaridhi awarded scholar is to acquire an eligibility criterion for the post of Assistant Professor at University/College.
10. The Vidyavaridhi awarded scholar can pursue research in Buddhism as a career.
11. The Vidyavaridhi awarded scholar can be engaged in manuscriptology and editing work.